Several economic drivers, including tax laws, technology, insurance changes, feed ingredients costs and legislative change, affect poultry and egg companies' financial management. Combine these challenges with the daily activities involved in global pandemic challenges and labor, and you get a very complex role for financial managers. USPOULTRY's 2021 Financial Management Seminar, developed by poultry and egg industry financial professionals, will give you some insight on the necessary tools to help increase your company's bottom line.

Additionally, there will be a selection of one-hour small group experience sharing breakout sessions Tuesday afternoon for open discussion. Don't forget to make your breakout session selections when you register!

It's important to stay informed of today's economic environment.

Register today . . . Don't delay!
