Over the years, the poultry industry has faced a myriad of challenges and opportunities but one issue that continues to gain momentum is the welfare of our birds. Again, this year, National Chicken Council, National Turkey Federation, United Egg Producers and U.S. Poultry & Egg Association are collaborating on the 2023 Live Production, Welfare and Biosecurity Seminar to broaden the spectrum on awareness and industry reach. The Seminar will address topics in production efficiencies, welfare and biosecurity best practices. The program speakers consist of industry managers, veterinarians and scientists who will make sure you are up to date on the key issues and concerns involved in grow-out operations.

Don't miss this year's seminar! It will be a lasting benefit to you and your company
